

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

COURSE OF STUDIES IN BROWN UNIVERSITY.

Requirements for Admission.

No person shall be admitted a member of the Freshman Class, unless he have completed his fourteenth year, nor to advanced standing, without proportional increase of age. He must bring satisfactory evidence of unexceptionable moral character, and be thoroughly acquainted with the Grammar of the Latin and Greek Languages, be able to construe and parse any portion of the following books, namely:—The Historical Books of the New Testament, Jacob's Greek Reader, Cæsar's Commentaries, Virgil, Cicero's Select Orations, and translate English into Latin correctly. To enter upon an advanced standing, he must, in addition, be thoroughly versed in all the preceding studies of the Class into which he proposes to be admitted.

The Grammars used in College, are Goodrich's Greek and Adam's Latin Grammar.

The Greek works designated in the following course will in future be used in the place of the Græca Majora.

Any young gentleman, of good moral character, may, without becoming a candidate for a degree, be admitted to pursue with the several classes of this Institution, such branches of study as his parent or guardian may select, under the direction of the officers of instruction, and subject, in all respects, to the rules and regulations of the University.

Butler's Analogy.

In conducting the studies of the several classes, the most approved text-books are used. It is not, however, the design of the Instruc-ters to be confined strictly to any text-book, as they wish rather to teach the science, than the view of it given by any individual author. For this purpose, a considerable part of the teaching, in the more advanced classes, is done by Lectures.

COURSES OF LECTURES are delivered on the following subjects:—

1. Roman Antiquities and Literature.
2. Grecian Antiquities and Literature.
3. The several branches of Natural Philosophy.
4. Chemistry.
5. Physiology, Vegetable and Animal.
6. Political Economy.
7. Moral Philosophy, and Evidences of Christianity.
8. Intellectual Philosophy.
9. Rhetoric.

GENERAL INFORMATION TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

By an examination of the preceding Course of Studies, it will be perceived that the Officers of this Institution propose to give instruction in the following departments of science:—

1. The Latin Language and Literature.
2. The Greek Language and Literature.

Hebrew is taught to those who desire it.

3. The pure Mathematics, including Geometry, Algebra, and the Differential and Integral Calculus, together with their various practical applications.

4. Natural Philosophy, including Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Optics and Astronomy.

5. Physical Science, including Chemistry, Mineralogy, Geology, Electricity, Magnetism, and Physiology.

6. Rhetoric, including the theory and practice of writing, and the composition and delivery of discourses.

7. Intellectual and Moral Philosophy, including the study of the intellectual and moral powers of man, and the Evidences of Revealed Religion.

8. The Constitution of the United States.

9. Political Economy.

It is required by the statutes of the University, that the above studies be pursued, and the regular examinations in them sustained, by every person who intends to become a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Without, however, becoming a candidate for a degree, any pupil may pursue, under the direction of the Officers of Instruction, any branch of study which he may select, subject, in all respects, to the rules and regulations of the University.

The Faculty are aware that the above course of studies cannot be advantageously pursued, except by persons who have attained some degree of intellectual maturity. Such, however, they think must be the case with any course of discipline, intended really to lay the broad foundations of a liberal education, or to prepare young men for the learned professions. It might also be suggested, that individuals whose youth would disable them from pursuing the above studies with success, would do wisely to delay the commencement of a collegiate education to a somewhat later period. The arrangements of such a seminary as this, presuppose in the pupil some power of self-government, and some decidedly formed feeling of social and moral responsibility. Until the character of a young man be thus far formed, he is too young to enter a public institution.

1. Regulations and Discipline.

The Regulations of the Institution are formed with the single design of promoting the intellectual and moral advancement of its members. They are made public, and may be known by every candidate before admission. If, at any time, a student become dissatisfied, he is at liberty immediately to withdraw, with every testimonial of scholarship and character to which he is entitled.

The Discipline of the Institution is intended to be strictly paternal. The officers desire to cultivate with their pupils habits of kind and familiar intercourse, and to influence them rather by an appeal to the better principles of the heart, than by severe or disgraceful punishment. If, however, the conduct of a student render it evident that he is not susceptible of such influence, he is immediately, and, if possible, without disgrace, returned to his friends, in the hope that under other circumstances he may yet form a character which will give promise of usefulness. Immoral or disorderly conduct is always considered a sufficient reason for directing a student to leave the Institution. If any student, after having completed the studies of any year, shall, upon examination, be found incompetent to pursue the studies of the year succeeding, he is permitted, without additional expense for tuition, to enter the class immediately below him, and thus enjoy a second opportunity of qualifying himself to proceed in the course.

An accurate account of the delinquencies of every student, and also of the degree of his attainment in conduct, scholarship, and attendance, is kept; a copy of which account, in connexion with the regular term bill, is transmitted to every parent or guardian who may desire it.

The students generally occupy rooms in the College edifices, and board in commons. Any student, however, at the request of his parents, is permitted either to board, or to board and lodge, at any suitable private house in the city. It is desired that students residing in the city should lodge at home, that they may, as much as possible, be under the guardianship of their parents.

2. Annual Expenses.

The board in commons is charged at its nett expense, and varies with the price of provisions. Good board is furnished at, from $1 to $1 12 per week, and that which is more expensive at from $1 50 to $1 61 per week.

Board for 39 weeks, at $1 00 to $1 12—	$39 00 to 43 68

3. Payments.

There are three terms of study in each year, and the expense of each is paid in advance. Students, unless from another College, entering the Freshman Class, pay five dollars; Sophomore Class, eight dollars; Junior Class, twelve dollars; Senior Class, fifteen dollars. No retrospective tuition is, however, demanded, and a candidate may enter, if qualified, at any period of the course, previously to the last term of the Senior year.

4. Commencement

Is held on the first Wednesday of September, immediately after which the first term of the collegiate year commences. The usual time is allotted to vacations, during the year.
